Nishan collective & Arlo Haisek:

The Yekit Collection 2.0

Nishan Collective is a curatorial platform for fine jewelry and decorative arts that celebrates East African heritage through thoughtful curation, ethical sourcing, and international collaboration. YEKIT explores the relationship between origin, devotion, and continuity, bringing the stories carried by Ethiopian opal into conversation with contemporary jewelry design.

Rooted in the belief that materials carry stories beyond their physical beauty, the collection honours the people, knowledge, and craftsmanship connected to their journey. Through cross-border collaboration, YEKET creates a dialogue between Ethiopian natural heritage and Italian artistry, connecting origin to creation and tradition to contemporary expression.

Arlo Haisek is a jewellery maker and microsculpture designer based in Florence, Italy, whose work transforms materials into intricate, enduring objects. For The YEKET Collection 2.0, this collaboration brings Ethiopian opal into a new artistic context, translating its natural character into pieces that explore devotion, care, and the enduring value of what we choose to preserve.

Each piece is an invitation to look beyond the finished object: to consider the material's origin, the hands that shape it, and the connections that give it meaning. Through this collection, Nishan Collective and Arlo Haisek seek to create a more considered relationship between natural heritage, craftsmanship, and contemporary beauty.

SILENT KEEPER

A gold plated bronze spoon with a fluid, sculptural handle and a rounded opal at the crown. The surface retains subtle irregularities, allowing light to travel unevenly across the material and emphasize its hand-formed character.
